TUPE Statement

Atalian Servest Limited and its subsidiary companies (“Atalian Servest”) is committed to providing services of the highest quality that are efficient, responsive and client focused.

The Transfer of Undertakings (Protection of Employment) Regulations 2006, commonly known as “TUPE”, is an integral part of our business when it comes to employee issues and one in which we feel we lead the way.

Atalian Servest accepts that staff are protected by the TUPE Regulations and believes that the information and consultation requirements of TUPE should be followed scrupulously. As such, when a Transfer of Undertakings takes place, Atalian Servest will consult with staff and their representatives and wholly support them through the transition of change.

Where TUPE applies, Atalian Servest is committed to working with the outgoing employer, the transferring employees and all representatives of the transferring employees, to ensure that the benefit of all existing terms and conditions of employment by the transferring employees protected by TUPE are honoured by Atalian Servest.

Atalian Servest believes that full, effective and continuous consultation is the key to the successful management of a transfer. Consultation should begin at the earliest opportunity and should continue after the transfer to ensure the proper dissemination of information is being achieved.

Atalian Servest’s aim is to work with the client to provide a modernised, high quality, efficient and client focused service. Atalian Servest recognizes that the skill and commitment of staff are amongst its best assets in providing a service that is one of the best in the service industry.
